Chandigarh / 27th, June.

The General Secretary, CWC member, Sirsa MP and Former Union Minister Kumari Selja on Friday said that the law and order situation in Haryana is deteriorating rapidly, with criminals becoming increasingly fearless and openly targeting public representatives.

Kumari Selja said that incidents of extortion threats, firing, and organised crime have become frequent in the state, raising serious concerns about public safety.

She pointed out that recently, a Congress MLA from Maham, Balram Dangi, faced firing outside his office, and now the same legislator has reportedly received a death threat along with a demand of ₹5 crore as extortion. She said that such incidents are not merely attacks on individual leaders but a direct challenge to democratic institutions and the rule of law. “If an elected representative is not safe, one can easily imagine the condition of ordinary citizens,” she said.

Kumari Selja alleged that criminals in the state no longer fear the law, and incidents of murder, loot, extortion and firing are rising steadily. She said the government has failed to take effective action, allowing a climate of fear and insecurity to develop across Haryana.

She stressed that maintaining law and order is the foremost responsibility of any government, but the present administration has failed to fulfil this basic duty. She demanded immediate arrest of those involved in threatening the MLA, a fair and swift investigation, and strict action against the culprits to restore public confidence. Kumari Selja said Haryana must be governed by the Constitution and the rule of law, not by fear and criminal intimidation.
